BISAC: JUVENILE FICTION / Family - General / Imagination & Play / Animals - Pets

This book tells the tale of a TV-addicted little girl and her dog Mr. Barkley, as they try to find a solution for the catastrophic breakdown of their television. Matters are complicated thanks to the pet's plan to show his master the real world.

A simple story that discusses the importance of diversifying the way we spend our free time. It also invites readers (and their parents) to be conscious of their relationship with electronic devices.

BISAC: JUVENILE FICTION / Social Themes - Friendship - Emotions & Feelings - Prejudice & Racism - Values & Virtues

Arturo and Lulai are best friends. They like the same things and always have fun together. They are inseparable. Until one day, Arturo gets mad at her and tells her to go to China and never come back. That night, Lulai can't stop crying. Why did he say such terrible things? Will they be able to be best friends again? With tenderness, realism, and a good dose of humor, Elvira Lindo creates a story that both children and adults will identify with.
