Unit 1

Big Idea

Nos conocemos

Unit Objectives

By the end of this unit, students will be able to

- greet and say goodbye by imagining that they visit México and meet children their own age.
- name family members by studying a family tree and completing one for their own family.
- introduce themselves to new friends by imagining different scenarios and engaging in a dialogue with their classmates.
- describe themselves, places, people, and things by using adjectives in conversations and in writing.

Discuss the Big Idea

- In this unit, students learn about the country of México, and how people in the Spanish-speaking world greet and say goodbye to each other. Students also learn the names for family members, how they interact with each other and with friends, and how places, people, and things are described.
- Display a map of North America or have students look at the map in their books. Help them identify México and explain that it is a country that borders the United States to the south. Have volunteers share what they know about México.
- Point out that México is one of many countries where Spanish is spoken. Tell students that they will learn about seven other Spanish-speaking countries in other units of this book.
- Explain to students that by their learning Spanish, they will be able to speak to about 350 million more people in the world!

Preview the Unit

Saludos y despedidas

Point to the top image on page 10 and tell students that this is El Zócalo—the main plaza, or square, in the downtown area of México's capital city. Discuss the image with students. Then have them go back to the map and point out the capital city: México, D.F. (México City). Explain that this is where the characters in the story will meet their Mexican friends.

Los amigos

Point to the top image on page 11 and explain that it shows part of Chapultepec Park, a famous park in the Mexican capital and a popular tourist destination. You may ask students to go back to the map and have them point to the capital city again. Tell students that the characters and their friends will visit this park and meet other friends.

¿Cómo somos?

Point to the bottom image on page 11 and tell students that it shows a view of Cancún, a popular beach city in México. Have students go back to the map and point out Cancún for them. Explain that this week they will learn how to describe Cancún as well as other places and people.

Hola, hermana

[to the tune of La cucaracha]

Hola, hermana.
 Hola, hermano.
 Hola, abuelo. ¿Cómo estás?
 Hola, abuela.
 Hola, papá.
 Muy buenos días, mamá.

[traditional lyrics]
 La cucaracha, la cucaracha
 ya no puede caminar
 porque no tiene porque le faltan las patitas de atrás.

Students embark on a cultural adventure

New with AP®
Test Prep

Middle and High School students join the adventure and learn Spanish as they travel to fascinating places in the Spanish-speaking world. They become online “fans” and vote for Andy, Tess, Tim, and Diana, who compete by taking on cultural challenges.

Systematic progression helps students create a solid linguistic and cultural foundation, preparing students for college and career-level Spanish.

“Each desafío is deeply infused with culture and cleverly paired with vocabulary and grammar, and my students are more engaged as a result. (...) The text does a wonderful job of incorporating all of the modes of communication through its variety of communicative activities. There is a wealth of ideas for the presentational mode throughout the desafíos, and even more in the activities and projects at the end of each unit.”

Los coquiés

The sound the coquí frogs make at night is very distinct. The inhabitants of the island often say they miss the murmur of these creatures when they go to sleep if they move to other countries. Because of this, it is relatively easy to find recordings of the coquiés on the web. Some students may relate to this if they grew up in rural areas where the sound of crickets or birds may fill the nights.

Differentiated Instruction

DEVELOPING LEARNERS

- Have students rewrite the fotonovela and highlight the words they know from the previous unit and the previous desafío. Then ask them to count the number of words highlighted. How many words do they already know?

EXPANDING LEARNERS

- Ask students to cover the speech bubbles in the fotonovela so only the pictures remain.
- Have students write a script of what they would say in each situation.

HERITAGE LANGUAGE LEARNERS

- The coquí is a typical animal of Puerto Rico. As a result it is a symbol of national identity. What other symbols are representative of other Spanish-speaking countries? Some examples: El toro en España; el cóndor en Perú; el quetzal en Guatemala.

COOPERATIVE LEARNING

- Place students in groups of four. Each group should have:
  - Two strong readers in Spanish.
  - Two students who need help with reading skills in Spanish.
- Have students read (or reread) the dialogue together. Students pick out the words they understand from the dialogue such as cognates, previous vocabulary, and previous grammatical structures.

Differentiated Instruction activities in every lesson help reach all students

¿Por qué la Tierra actúa como un imán?

Durante muchos siglos, los navegantes cruzaron el mar con sus brújulas en el taller por qué vibraba el Norte. Hoy ya sabe que nuestro planeta es un imán gigantesco, debido a que en su interior hay materiales magnéticos, y eso, como todos los metales, tiene dos polos. Cada uno de ellos se encuentra situado muy cerca de uno de los polos geográficos. Esto hace que cada uno de los polos de la Tierra atraiga al polo opuesto de la aguja de la brújula.

¿Por qué la Tierra actúa como un imán?

Durante muchos siglos, los navegantes cruzaron el mar con sus brújulas en el interior de un imán gigante, debido a que en su interior hay materiales magnéticos, y eso, como todos los imanes, tiene dos polos. Cada uno de ellos se encuentra situado muy cerca de uno de los polos geográficos. Esto hace que cada uno de los polos de la Tierra atraiga al polo opuesto de la aguja de la brújula.

La piedra magnética
La piedra magnética es un mineral que se encuentra en la corteza terrestre. Este mineral es el que hace que la Tierra actúe como un imán gigante.

Propiedades de los imanes
Los imanes atraen a los metales ferrosos (hierro, níquel y cobalto). Los imanes se atraen entre sí si tienen polos opuestos y se repelen si tienen polos iguales.

¿Cómo funciona la brújula?
La brújula funciona gracias a la fuerza magnética de la Tierra. La aguja de la brújula es un imán que se alinea con los polos magnéticos de la Tierra.

El norte magnético
El norte magnético de la Tierra no coincide con el norte geográfico. El norte magnético está situado en Canadá.

El sur magnético
El sur magnético de la Tierra está situado en Australia.

Los imanes y el magnetismo
El magnetismo es una fuerza que atrae o repelle a los objetos que contienen metales ferrosos.

¿Dónde está nuestro ADN?

Las células son los unidades de materia viva más pequeñas que pueden existir. Son capaces de realizar las tres funciones básicas de la vida: nutrición y reproducción. Todas las seres vivos estamos formados por uno o más células. En el interior de cada célula se encuentra el ADN (ácido desoxirribonucleico), que contiene toda la información genética de la célula materna y del organismo completo.

El ADN
El ADN es un ácido nucleico que contiene la información genética de un organismo. Está formado por dos cadenas de azúcar-fosfato unidas por puentes de hidrógeno. Las bases nitrogenadas se unen entre las cadenas para formar el código genético.

El código genético
El código genético es el lenguaje que utiliza el ADN para dar instrucciones a las células sobre cómo construir proteínas. Cada letra del código genético está formada por tres bases nitrogenadas (un codón).

Las células

A Story About

The Hummingbird That Wanted to Go to The Party

Once there was a bee hummingbird that wanted to go the party given by the biggest birds in the forest. But she wasn't invited because of her size.

"I've got to do something to get an invitation," she said to herself, preening her feathers and flying into the light to show off her beautiful iridescent colors. But the big birds didn't even notice her. So the little hummingbird polished her beak and landed on a branch near where the party was being set up. She began to sing her best song.

ELD/Intervention

Santillana USA's ESL/ELD programs are standards based, student centered, and content focused, promoting English language acquisition and literacy. From Summer School and after-school programs, to year-long intervention, our resources support teachers and English Language Learners throughout the language acquisition process.

*"I like that the program covers many different content areas, including math, science, social studies, and of course, literacy. Because I teach ESL, I must assist my students in learning their regular curriculum of studies, and Spotlight on English makes it so easy for me to teach these content areas in a manner that maximizes student retention and progress. I am grateful to Santillana for providing me and other teachers like me with a surefire way of meeting city and state educational standards."*

- Designed with a content-rich framework—language arts, math, science, social studies, music, and art

Spotlight on English empowers ALL learners with the academic language and literacy needed to access grade-level content.

"I love this program because it targets different proficiency levels and instructs the teacher in methods of adapting a basic lesson plan to suit different classes. It spells out the lesson plans and makes my prep work much easier than it used to be. My students have responded very well, even those who only recently came to the U.S. from other countries. It also allows me to adapt the lessons to meet the needs of students with different intelligence levels. This takes the guesswork out of differentiation."

Active Reading Questioning Strategies

READING COMPREHENSION

Developing

- ▶ Recall Why does Raúl want to skip breakfast?
Remind students that recall questions ask them about something they have just read in the text.

Expanding

- ▶ Comparing and Contrasting How is Dad's view of breakfast different from Raúl's?
Explain to students that comparing is telling how two or more things, events, or characters are alike, and contrasting is telling how two or more things, events, or characters are different.

More Complex

- ▶ Making Inferences Why might Dad want Raúl to think about last week's game?
Remind students that when they make inferences, they use clues from the text and what they already know to figure out something that is not directly stated or explained.

Narrator: Raúl stopped at the kitchen door.
Raúl: Dad, I'm not really hungry after all. I want to go outside and practice my swing.
Dad: Raúl, I really think you should eat breakfast. You're going to need all the energy you can get.
Raúl: No, I'll be fine.
Dad: I'm not so sure about that. Remember last week's game?

Active Reading Questioning Strategies

READING COMPREHENSION

Developing

► Recall How did Raúl start feeling in the third inning?

Expanding

► Main Idea and Details What details support the idea that Raúl was tired? Explain to students that the main idea is the most important point the author makes in a story or paragraph. In order to support the main idea, authors use details in other sentences that may describe, give reasons and definitions, and provide other types of information. Here, two details that support the idea that Raúl is tired are “His feet began to feel like steel weights” and “His bat felt like a ton of bricks.”

More Complex

► Sequence What events happened in the fourth inning? Use the words first, next, and last to tell the events. Explain to students that sequence questions ask about the order of events in a story or a scene.

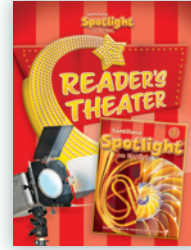

Narrator 1: Raúl thought back to last week's game.
 Narrator 2: He played well in the first few innings.
 Narrator 1: But he did not play as well in later innings.
 Narrator 2: Raúl started feeling tired by the bottom of the third inning.
 Narrator 1: His feet began to feel like steel weights. His bat felt like a ton of bricks.
 Narrator 2: During the fourth inning, Raúl was caught in a run-down. He ran back and forth between first and second base.
 Narrator 1: Soon, Raúl couldn't run anymore and he got tagged out. He walked back to the dugout with his head hung low.

Metodología de la enseñanza de español como lengua extranjera en la primaria*

978-1-61605-395-6 | Level: K-5

This session explores the basic principles of foreign language teaching as they apply to the teaching of Spanish in the elementary classroom and to the learning processes that are associated with second language acquisition, communicative competency, and cultural competency. Participants discuss effective techniques for assessing and evaluating students and learn about resources available to enhance teaching and learning Spanish at the elementary level.

* Offered in Spanish

Gramática y ortografía para la escuela primaria y secundaria (Grammar, Spelling, and Punctuation for Elementary and Secondary Spanish Teachers)

978-1-61605-398-7 | Level: K-5

978-1-61605-399-4 | Level: 6-12

This session addresses common grammatical issues secondary Spanish heritage language students encounter and strategies to help address these problems. Participants benefit from a review and clarification of basic and advanced grammatical and linguistic concepts, including the teaching and learning of spelling and punctuation, verb conjugations, common grammatical and linguistic inaccuracies, and common errors of heritage speakers living in the U.S. (e.g. Spanish/English false cognates, accent rules, language variation, etc.).

Metodología de la enseñanza del español como lengua materna*

9781631135927 | Levels K-12

The session provides teachers of heritage Spanish speakers with research-based instructional strategies proven effective when teaching heritage Spanish speakers. Participants learn about the influence of culture on teaching and learning: cross-cultural learning on cultural identity, the transcultural experience, cultural competency and mediation, and cross-cultural communication. The session also explores six categories of language learning strategies: cognitive, metacognitive, memory-related, compensatory, affective, and social (Oxford, 2001).

Foreign Language Methods

978-1-61435-582-3

Session participants explore basic principles of foreign language teaching and learning processes. This session also familiarizes teachers with the resources available to enhance the teaching and learning of Spanish as a foreign language in the secondary classroom, including textbooks and ancillaries, manipulatives, both controlled Spanish readers and authentic Spanish language literature (literature written by Spanish speakers for Spanish speakers), technology and Internet resources, and teacher-made materials. This session explains the importance of integrating reading comprehension with the development of higher thinking skills. Enabling students to read analytically is one of the main goals of the new approach to teaching reading in Spanish. Participants learn and discuss the three main reading skills students must develop: (1) recognize the meaning of a word or phrase within the context of the other ideas presented in the text; (2) identify and understand basic reading forms (beginning, development, resolution; reading genres, types of reading selections, etc.) and (3) identify the relationships between the ideas presented in a reading selection in order to analyze and synthesize the information.

ESL/ELD, BILINGUAL, AND DUAL-LANGUAGE SESSIONS

Reading Strategies for the Second Language Classroom (ESL/ELD)

978-1-60396-705-1 | Level: K–12

The acquisition of reading skills is vital to the development of literacy in any language. This session discusses pre-, during, and post-reading strategies and approaches that make scaffolded reading instruction comprehensible to ALL students, especially students who have had interrupted formal education (SIFE). Participants learn the appropriate use of high-interest, low-difficulty reading selections.

Sheltered Instruction Strategies for Language and Content Workshop*

Level: K–12

Session focuses on language and content sheltered instruction and explores proven-effective, research-based planning tools for working with ELL in elementary classrooms or secondary content area classrooms. This is a three-session (three full days) workshop, presented either concurrently or separately.

*$3,500 per day for 35 participants. $50 per day for each additional participant.

Session 1 (Day 1) 978-1-62263-144-5

Participants learn effective strategies for planning and preparation: how to select and use appropriate basal and supplemental instructional materials, adapt content to different levels of ELL proficiency, and deliver lessons. They also learn about comprehensible input, and how it is used to inform explanations of academic tasks, and the application of a variety of classroom techniques to make content concepts clear (such as modeling, visuals, hands-on activities, demonstrations, experiments, gestures, and body language).

Session 2 (Day 2) 978-1-62263-145-2

Participants learn how to incorporate effective teaching strategies into instruction to ensure comprehensible input. They create content and language objectives and opportunities for students to use learning strategies themselves. Participants also learn a variety of scaffolding techniques, including reading scaffolding and consistent use of scaffolding from lesson to unit to theme.

Session 3 (Day 3) 978-1-62263-146-9

Participants learn to incorporate additional teaching strategies that focus on building background knowledge and activating prior knowledge, such as grouping configurations that support both language and content learning and clarifications in both L1 and L2. They also learn how to incorporate practice and application activities that reinforce language and content objectives and explore ways to review the objectives, including targeted vocabulary (both subject area/technical and academic vocabulary) and key concepts and ideas. The session also addresses the use of formative and summative assessments to evaluate students.

Theory and Practice of Language Acquisition

9781631135934 | Levels K–12

The session focuses on the current research framework that supports high-quality, effective teaching and learning practices in the classroom: First v. Second Language Acquisition, Factors that Affect Language Acquisition in the Classroom, the Affective Filter, Language Proficiency and Leveling, Thomlinson's Differentiated Instruction (*), and others. Participants explore teaching and learning strategies based on this framework, are presented with hands-on, classroom-tested examples, as well as samples of instructional materials that support this methodological framework.

(*) Differentiated instruction (Carol Anne Thomlinson) is an approach to teaching essential content in ways that address the varied learning needs of students with the goal of maximizing the possibilities of each learner. In the classroom, teachers must differentiate not only by language proficiency, but also by other factors, such as each student's functional grade level, academic background, and cultural and ethnic variables.

Comprehensible Input and its Implications to the Bilingual, ESL and Spanish Classroom

9781631135941 | Levels K–12

This session focuses on Second Language Acquisition theories as presented by researchers (Krashen, 1981; Krashen & Terrell, 1983), including Jim Cummins's distinction between two types of language: basic interpersonal communications skills (BICS) and cognitive academic language proficiency (CALP). Participants learn how these theories can help develop effective instructional strategies and assessments that guide students along a continuum of language development—from cognitively undemanding, context-embedded curricula to cognitively demanding, context-reduced curricula (Robson, 1995).

Instructional Learning Strategies for the Bilingual/ESL Classroom
9781631135958 | Levels K–12

This session explores the meaning of bilingualism and effective bilingual language program models, including transitional, dual-language, one way and two-way bilingual, among others. Participants examine key factors in the development of bilingual programs, implementation issues, materials that most effectively support L1 and L2 oral language and literacy development, and common transferable elements of L1 to L2 literacy. Participants learn how to develop effective instructional units and compare, contrast, and evaluate examples of curriculum mapping, lesson designs and model lessons.

Principles of Interactive Instruction
9781631135965 | Levels K–12

This session explores activity-based teaching and focuses on how teachers can recognize what each learner brings to the classroom and the role they play in their own language acquisition process. Since research on learning and memory (Sprengr, 1999), on language acquisition and language learning (Cameron, 2001), and on the functions of the brain (Genesee, 2000) confirms ELL are actively constructing schema (organizational structures of language and content) and meaning, instruction should motivate students to take active roles in their own learning. Participants will learn how communicative teaching and learning focuses on authentic, comprehensible, and interactive communication through a variety of channels: teacher/student, student/teacher, student/student, student/students, etc.

Developing Cross-Cultural Awareness and Multicultural Understanding
9781631135972 | Levels K–12

This session explores the importance of multiculturalism and pluralism in the classroom and ways to better understand and serve different student populations. Participants examine Banks’s (1997) dimensions of multicultural education and discuss the importance of cultural differences, strategies to appropriately respond to these differences, how cultural differences may impact learning in math, science, and social studies; and how to apply these principles to their own instruction.

Teaching Language, Literacy, and Content to High Quality
9781631135989 | Levels K–12

This session explains what high-quality standards* are and their instructional implications in the classroom, particularly as they relate to ELL, Spanish Language Arts, and Spanish as a World Language instruction. Participants examine the principles of standards-based instruction; instruction that (a) is comprehensible, (b) is grade level and developmentally appropriate, (c) is of the same rigor, and scope and sequence as the instruction received by English speakers and (d) takes into consideration language and cultural differences. Participants compare and contrast state and national content standards* and explore ways to address and implement these standards in the classroom.

* ELA Common Core Standards, the Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills Standards, the ACTFL Standards, WIDA Standards, etc. Each session is tailored to either teachers of ELL (ESL/ELD, bilingual, or dual-language), teachers of Spanish as a World Language or teachers of Spanish for Spanish speakers (heritage speakers).

Applying Depth of Knowledge (DOK) for Effective Lesson Delivery with Content/Language Objectives
9781631135996 | Levels K–12

This session focuses on the research framework that supports the teaching and learning of language and literacy through the application of Webb’s Depth of Knowledge methodology. Webb (1997) developed a process and criteria for systematically analyzing the alignment between standards and standardized assessments, called Depth of Knowledge (DOK). The DOK model can be used to analyze the cognitive expectation demanded by standards, curricular activities, and assessment tasks (Webb, 1997). Participants will explore how the DOK model can be applied to the bilingual, ESL, and Spanish classroom, and how teachers can learn to ascribe a cognitive demand level and DOK category in order to differentiate language and content instruction for second language learners.

Review and Assessment in the Bilingual, ESL and Spanish Classroom
9781631136009 | Levels K–12

This session examines the research behind assessing English language and grade-level academic proficiency in ELL, including the Thomas & Collier (1997) research findings. Participants are introduced to a variety of measurement strategies and approaches, including how to use individual, classroom, and school-wide achievement data to gauge ELL progress in acquiring language and content knowledge. Practical, hands-on activities encourage participants to create and implement assessment and evaluation tools for both formative and summative purposes. Participants explore the role of statewide assessments in measuring ELL progress, and how to best prepare the students for high-stakes evaluations of English language, literacy, and content.

Engaging ELL Students through H.O.T.S.
9781631136016 | Levels K–12

This session examines the research base and theory behind accelerating student achievement through rigorous and relevant instruction that actively engages students in higher-order thinking (Krathwohl, 2002; Pogrow, 1995; 2002; 2004; 2004a; Bartos & Banks, 2015). Participants select instructional strategies based on student achievement data that supports ELL student mastery of high-quality standards (such as the ELA Common Core Standards and the Texas TEKS).

Teaching Millennial Students
9781631136023 | Levels K–12

This session presents the characteristics and needs of millennial students, identified as those children born between 1981 and 2004 (Novotney, 2010; Howell & Strauss, 2000; Stewart & Bernhardt, 2010; and Wilson, 2004). Participants explore the implications of these factors on teaching in ESL, bilingual, dual-language and Spanish as a World Language and/or Spanish for Spanish speakers program models, and learn second language strategies that capitalize on the strengths of millennial students to help increase student achievement.
